

OCALA OCCURRENCES

K. of P. meet tonight.

Council meets tomorrow evening.

Odd Fellows meet tomorrow night.

Woodmen meet Friday evening.

Pythian Sisters meet tomorrow afternoon.

The Evening Star may always be found on sale at Gerig's News Store.

Mr. Geo. W. Martin is home off the road to visit his family and to vote.

Mr. Percy Perkins visited friends in Tampa Sunday.

Mr. W. J. Frink, of Council, Ga., spent Saturday in Ocala.

Mr. Curtis Conner has a position with Gerig's drugstore.

Mr. W. J. Hilands will leave tonight for New York.

Mr. Jim Pyles, the genial representative of Snow & Bryan of Tampa, was calling on our merchants Tuesday.—Dunnellon Advocate.

Mr. C. H. Dame arrived in the city Sunday, and will remain to vote before returning to Lakeland. Mr. Dame continues to do fine work for the Woodmen.

Mr. Oscar Andrews and a friend may call at the store of Mr. J. D. Small in North Ocala and drink bottled coca-cola at the expense of our company, if they will show this notice. The Ocala Coca-Cola Bottling Works.

Mr. J. F. Parker of Leroy was a pleasant visitor Wednesday. Mr. Parker reports that crops in that section are suffering from drought, but that cane grinding will begin this week, and the celebrated syrup from his section will be better than ever this year.—Dunnellon Advocate.

Dr. D. M. Boney arrived from Jacksonville yesterday, to attend to business affairs and will remain until after election. Dr. Boney is doing well in Jacksonville, which his Ocala friends are glad to hear, though he miss him a good deal and wish something would drive him back home.

Mr. Max Tobleske, who just arrived from the border Saturday, looks hale and hearty and brown as a berry. He says the boys of Company A are all lined up along the Rio, watching the greasers across the river, and expecting to have to swap shots with them every minute. There is a large force of Mexicans in Nuevo Laredo, and trouble today or tomorrow was half-way expected.

Mr. C. Stiles has charge for the present of the rooms at the Ocala House, and Mr. C. W. Hunter has taken over the restaurant. Mr. Mark Temple, who has done such good work with the restaurant, is helping Mr. Hunter, and the team is taking mighty fine care of the traveling public.

Thelbert Troxler had the misfortune of breaking his leg yesterday afternoon. In company with several of his young friends he was looking over the new city water works and electric light buildings, and stepped on an insecure pile of lumber. The lumber began falling and before he could get out of the way his leg was caught under several large pieces. His friends succeeded in getting the timbers moved, but not until the leg had been broken just above the ankle. He was moved to the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Troxler on South Sanchez street, where two physicians dressed the limb. Though his wound is a painful one and will necessitate lying up for a month or more, it is not thought that he will suffer permanent injury from it.

Better Iron It.

The other morning little Helen was watching mother press one of her coats. Helen asked why this had to be done. Mother said to get the wrinkles out. Later mother was sitting on the porch with Helen in a large red rocker. The impression of the red on mother's arm wrinkled it a great deal. Helen seeing this exclaimed: "Mamma, look at your arm! Don't you think you had better iron it?"

Country's Debt to Novelists.

Charles Reade killed the horrible system of transportation for life, and removed from Australia and New Zealand the stain of being criminal dumping grounds. His novel, "It Is Never Too Late to Mend," did the trick, and the British dominions in the southern hemisphere owe the novelist a debt of gratitude which they have not failed to pay.

Treatment of Boils.

A French doctor has had great success with scattering bolts by applying at the first signs of inflammation compresses wet with equal parts of tincture of arnica, tincture of iodine and spirits of camphor. Continue until the trouble seems to be passed. If with the compresses one drinks sulphur water or red clover blossom tea, it will help to scatter the boils and overcome the tendency.

THE WOMAN'S SYNODICAL AUXILIARY OF FLORIDA

The Woman's Synodical Auxiliary of Florida will hold its third annual meeting in the First Presbyterian church of this city Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, Nov. 7, 8 and 9.

This is an organization of the Presbyterian church, United States, and is composed of St. Johns, Florida and Suwanee Presbyteries, with a membership of 2070 Presbyterian women. Its object is to enlarge, strengthen, and unify the work of the Presbyterian auxiliaries of the Synod of Florida.

Mrs. W. H. Dodge, formerly of this city, was the first president of the Synodical. Miss E. H. Denham, of Monticello, is the president and Mrs. Charles E. Dorsey of Jacksonville, is the secretary.

Since its organization three years ago, splendid work has been accomplished, and many women have received a larger vision of service.

Great interest is being manifested in the coming meeting, and Ocala is looking forward with pleasure to entertaining her guests at this time.

Rev. S. H. Chester of Nashville, Tenn., who is secretary of foreign correspondence of the Presbyterian executive committee of foreign missions, will make the address Tuesday evening.

Mrs. W. C. Winsborough of Atlanta, Ga., the efficient superintendent of woman's work of the Southern Presbyterian church, will be present and on Wednesday evening will deliver a splendid address on "The Challenge of the Hour."

The entire program, which follows, provides educational as well as inspirational features, and it is hoped that the people of Ocala of all denominations, will take advantage of the opportunity of attending these sessions.

Preparedness.

Young Aldrich was waiting in the parlor for his loved one to appear, when her small brother came in and took a seat. "Well, Chester," said Aldrich, "what did your sister say when you told her I was waiting?"

"Why, she didn't say nothing," replied the small brother. "She just took a ring off one finger and put it on another."—Life.

Rather Apt Comparison.

"A meteoric career is not wholly to be desired," admitted Professor Pate. "The meteor suddenly flames forth from obscurity, dashes crazily athwart the surprised sky in a squirt of momentary brilliancy, pops loudly and subsides into oblivion, very much as does the average favorite son."

Good Reason.

A woman from the city was spending the summer in a small town, and one day, while doing her marketing, she asked the butcher how he happened to choose his business. He hesitated a moment, and then: "Well, I don't know," he answered, "but I always was fond of animals."

He Was Impressed.

"Was the sermon today to your liking, John?" inquired the pastor. "Indeed, sir, it was a grand sermon," said John, with genuine admiration. "What part seemed to take hold of you?"

"Well, now since you ask me, I'll tell you. What took hold of me most was your perseverance—the way you went over the same thing again and again and again."—Christian Herald.

First Street Railway.

The first street railway in the United States was built in New York City in Fourth avenue, between Prince street and Harlem, in 1842, and horse cars were introduced into the principal American cities between then and 1881, when the use of electricity was begun.

TWIN MADE PAPER FAMOUS

Virginia City Enterprise, Now Defunct, Printed Some of the Best Work of Great Humorist.

To only the old or middle-aged will there be anything significant in the announcement that the Enterprise newspaper at Virginia City, Nevada, has passed away. The Enterprise was not potent as a mold of public opinion. Its circulation was not notable, and outside of the state few people knew of its existence. But it had once one member of the staff who made it famous in his day and who himself later became famous.

It was the Enterprise on which Mark Twain first used that name which afterward became a household word. He had contributed articles from mining camps under the pseudonym of "Josh," but when he joined the staff he adopted as sobriquet "Mark Twain," a reminiscence of his pilot days. As new "strikes" were made the newspaper office was moved first from Genoa to Carson and later to Virginia City.

One can visualize Mark in the Enterprise office of the '60s, his long legs twisted about the tilted chair, the old hat on his great bush of hair, writing some such matter as "Mr. Bloke's Item," swapping stories with Dan de Quille, or listening to the quaint vernacular of visiting miners or prospectors. It was there he began the first of those experiences which were to enrich the literature of the country and to teach a tired world how to laugh. The Enterprise is gone, but so are the Oil City Derrick, the Laramie Boomerang, and the Danbury News, at least no one now hears of them since the humorists who made the reputations of those journals have passed away.

When Cows Sold at $15.

How the increase in the cost of living has progressed in the last thirty or forty years was discussed by Gov. J. B. Kendrick of Wyoming, an old stockman, who has watched the march of events. Today a chicken is worth more than a turkey was a few years ago; a turkey more than a hog; a hog more than a cow used to be worth, and a cow more than a horse. This illustrates the increase in the price of food stock.

"In March, 1879, I went down to Texas to look over two thousand head of steers in Matagorda county, southern Texas," Governor Kendrick said, according to the Washington Post. "While I was down looking over the young cattle I was asked by the manager of the ranch if I cared to buy some older steers. The owner, I was told, had a number of six-year-old steers that he would sell, although he was not anxious. He was going to hold them until he got his price, he declared. The manager impressed upon me, however, that I need not hope to buy unless I was willing to pay the owner's price."

"I asked the price, and was told that he wanted fifteen dollars a head. Think of it—fifteen dollars a head for six-year-olds, and today calves are bringing eighty-five dollars."

Gaslight in Oil Lamp.

A war time substitute for the kerosene oil light has been provided in Germany in the form of a carbide candle which supplies the old lamp with acetylene gas, the Columbia State notes. The candle is a cylinder having a suitable gas burner at the top and a removable cover at the bottom, and holding two or three ounces of calcium carbide. It is set into the lamp after the oil burner has been removed. In operation the front of the lamp is about half filled with water and the carbide filled candle is placed in it, when the moisture reaching the carbide causes the generation of acetylene for a considerable time. The rate of emission of gas is regulated by varying the amount of water. A chalky residue is left on the exhaustion of the carbide, but this is easily removed when dry or with suitable care, while still wet and in this state giving off a small amount of inflammable gas. The average cost of the carbide used is stated to be about a quarter of a cent an hour.

"K. of K." Feared Drowning.

Lord Kitchener had a sort of foreboding of an accident at sea. So much was this the case that he never crossed from Dover to Calais without wearing a lifebelt waistcoat, one that he had specially made for him in Egypt before he made his famous advance to Khartum.

Though so often on the sea and an excellent sailor, he detested sea trips, and never felt comfortable on board ship. He complained that the sea affected his sight.

Another curious point was that while he always acquired curios in any part of the world in which he might be, he took care never to allow his purchase to be on the vessel on which he was a passenger.

Another Political Emblem.

"What I propose," said the man who gets very much in earnest, "is a political organization that will be free from all selfish interest, laboring only for the highest ideals."

"I know," interrupted the rude person. "You're going to start one of those sea-serpent parties."

"Because there ain't no such animal."

New York Land Reforested.

Five thousand acres of state land and 3,000 acres of privately owned land in New York state has been reforested this year.

Wants to Know Why.

Why is it that a careless seven-year-old boy can drop a half-burned barn in an alley and burn up all the barns in the block, while an able-bodied man has to use a box of matches to get a wood fire started in a heater that has draft enough to draw all the furniture up the stovepipe?—Lebanon Times.

OCALA SOCIAL AFFAIRS

The Woman's Missionary Society of the Methodist church held their business meeting this afternoon at the church. This is to be followed by the first service of their annual week of prayer, which is led by Mrs. J. M. Gross. Each afternoon during the week from 3 to 4 o'clock, will be held a service. Tuesday's meeting will be led by Mrs. R. McConathy. It is hoped that every member of the missionary society as well as every woman member of the church, who possibly can, will be present. It will take time to think and pray, energy to so plan and execute your other duties that you may be able to attend the meetings. It may take self-denial—it should—to give money for the furtherance of Christ's kingdom. Our offerings are to go to Latin-America, which embraces our work for the Cuban's in Key West and Tampa.

At the home of Mr. and Mrs. Rinaldo Toffaletti on the boulevard, the latter's sister, Miss Mary Antuono and Miss Mildred Clark gave a unique Hallowe'en carnival, Tuesday evening. The guests went in masquerade. Pranks, gambols and dancing were enjoyed during the evening and the Hallowe'en colors, black and yellow, with which the lower floor of the residence were tastefully decorated, with the gay costumes lent unusual gaiety to the evening. Dainty refreshments of hot chocolate, sandwiches and cake were served the guests who were Misses Hill, Ethel Saulsbury, Maggie Brown, Irene and Carlotta Toffaletti, Carrie and Cornelia Hicks, Bessie Shelton, Fay Kesson, Annie Newman, Mildred Reils, Josephine Toalfetti, Mary Antuono and Mildred Clark, Messrs. Albert, John, Tony and Sebastian Antuono, Eddie Smith, Richard Bateman, Joe Courter, Louie Hicks, Robert Neil, Robert Abbott, Lester Reils, John Lynn, Rayford and Ted Brooks, C. L. Clark, J. G. Yeats and James Crabtree, Mr. and Mrs. R. Toffaletti, Mrs. Joe Toffaletti and Mrs. Gonzales.—Tampa Tribune.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Ray A. Anderson at South Lake Weir has been made happier by the arrival of a pretty little girl, whom her parents have named Doris May. The little lady weighs eight pounds. Her parents have many friends in Ocala, who join in best wishes for Miss Doris May's long and happy life.

The Junior sewing circle wants to thank especially Mrs. Harry Holcomb for being instrumental in getting for the festival the White House coffee from the C. N. Lewis Co., of Jacksonville.

Mrs. Max Tobleske, at the hospital, is slowly recovering from a recent operation, and it is hoped she will soon be out of danger. Mr. Tobleske arrived Saturday night from Laredo, on a twelve days furlough, which he will try to have extended.

Mr. and Mrs. R. T. Weaver arrived in Ocala from Dade City yesterday, and will remain until tomorrow afternoon.

Mr. F. W. Ditto returned Saturday evening, from a visit to his sister, Mrs. Driver, in Birmingham. Mrs. Driver has been very ill, but was much better when Mr. Ditto left.

Miss Ella Bogie is visiting friends at Reddick.

Blessing of Work. Work is a guardian angel. Work turns the wilderness into a garden. Work does sometimes what even love cannot do; roots a man firmly in his place in the world and gives him the blessed sensation: This plot of ground in the wide immensity of earth was meant for me to grow in.—Robert Hichens.

Realized It Would Be Close. The moment the razor touched his face, the man in the chair realized that he was in the hands of an amateur. "Will you have a close shave, sir?" asked the barber. "It looks like it," returned the victim, moodily. "At present the odds against my getting out of this chair alive seem very heavy, indeed."—Boston Transcript.

Defining an Optimist. An optimist may be described as a person who believes that a wolf is going to be captured during a big wolf hunt.—Athenian Globe.

In the Rubber Fields. While the most approved methods of reducing the milk to rubber in South America is by conglomeration in smoke, natives of Africa frequently resort to the practice of covering their bodies with the fluid as it is taken from the tree and after there has been sufficient evaporation the rubber residue is scraped off and molded into cubes. In the Fiji Islands the rubber workers use their mouths as "retorts" or "separators," the rubber pellets as they form being taken in the fingers and molded into balls.
